

July Clearance

The July Clearance Sale Ends To-day

This is our final notice of the close of this unusual saving occasion. The main purpose of the event has been practically accomplished. Many of the lines set aside for clearance are at their lowest ebb, however, there are still many good bargains that it is for your interest to take advantage of. We have added several items so that the last day of this event provides equal saving advantages with the first. Though it is impossible to list all items set aside for immediate disposal, those listed offer conclusive evidence of the values we offer.

This is White Skirt Season

We have just received another lot of those White Gabardine Skirts that sell regularly at $1.25, these will go in this sale, each, at.....98c

Women's Skirts Reduced

You can still find desirable garments at the extraordinarily low prices now in force. These are Skirts that you can wear well up into the fall. Immediate action is necessary if you want to secure one of the biggest values of the year.

Voile Dresses

It is only because this is July Clearance Week that this lot of Dresses are being offered at reduced prices. They are just what you want to put right on these hot days. Drop in and see them.

Clearance of Corsets

This lot includes several of the best known makes. They are simply odd pairs and discontinued lines—if your corset is here it means a big saving for you.

Clearance Prices on Domestics

No doubt you are perfectly aware of the big advance on practically all commodities and especially merchandise of this nature. These are not only high but they are going very much higher. All we can do is to advise you to lay in a good supply when you can get them at these low prices.

Yes, we are still serving Drown's famous lemon sherbert with a large variety of luscious fruits and syrups to suit your own particular taste.

William Robertson of Boston arrived in the city this morning, having been summoned here by the death of his sister, Miss Jessie Robertson of Perrin street.

Frank Tupper, night station agent for the Central Vermont railroad in Burlington, visited friends in Barre to-day. Mr. Tupper was graduated from Goddard seminary in the class of 1912.

Inter-city park Sunday evening, "Wild Oats," a five-part drama with Malcolm Duncan and Alma Hanlon. Also one of those "Musty Suffer" comedies. A three-piece orchestra will furnish music—adv.

The condition of Reardon Morris, the little son of Mr. and Mrs. Allan A. Morris, who submitted to a severe surgical operation at the City hospital several days ago, continues to show steady progress.

Friends of Miss Susan Collins, formerly a teacher in the city schools, will be interested to learn that she is a member of the summer school faculty at Johnson Normal school, having charge of the department of penmanship.

H. L. Bailey of Bradford, who is connected with the state department of agriculture as inspector of the potato crops that are being grown as certified seed potatoes, arrived in the city this morning and is making a business visit with County Agent F. H. Abbott.

Central Vermont railroad engineers who are touring the company's main line and branches in Vermont are engaged just now in re-establishing track levels and gauges along the Barre branch. The engineers travel in a small tram car propelled by a gasoline engine.

Mr. and Mrs. David Farrand and nieces, Misses Dorothy and Eva Shaw of North Main street, together with Mr. and Mrs. Frank Gladding of Nelson street, returned last evening to their homes after spending their vacation of 10 days encamped on a fishing expedition.

Red Men of Barre with members of Winnetka council, betook themselves to Caledonia park this forenoon for their annual outing. An interesting program of athletic events was in prospect for the afternoon with dancing as a side diversion for the later hours of the day. Provisions for accommodating nearly 500 people were made by the committee.

Brigadier General Andrews and Mrs. Andrews of Hartford, Conn., who were here last evening to attend the Salvation Army rally in the Congregational church, went to-day to Burlington, where they are to preach at services to be held to-morrow. Mr. Andrews is the divisional officer of the Salvation Army in this section and with Mrs. Andrews he was given a hearty reception by members of the Army at the local barracks yesterday.

Dr. Angus H. L. Smith of New York, formerly of South Ryegate, has been receiving acquaintances in Barre for a few days. Dr. Smith was graduated from Spaulding high school in 1911 and during his school days here he took a prominent part in interscholastic athletics. After graduation he matriculated at the Jefferson Medical college in Philadelphia and is now pursuing a post-graduate course in a New York hospital. He will visit in South Ryegate before returning to his duties.

Sidney Rowe was arrested on a warrant late yesterday afternoon and arraigned before Magistrate H. W. Scott on a charge of intoxication, first offense, which he pleaded guilty, paying the minimum fine and costs. A similar fine and costs were paid by Daniel McBayne for a breach of the peace offense, the arrest of the respondent having been made on a warrant issued by the grand juror. Both cases grew out of trouble which started on Maple avenue around July 4. In connection with the foregoing Mr. McBayne wishes to state that if he hadn't been defrauded in a stove deal with a Maple avenue junk man, the trouble wouldn't have occurred.

Among the guests registered at Hotel Barre yesterday and to-day were the following people: F. A. Norden and party of New York, Mrs. A. B. Woodford, Mrs. F. H. Gaylard, Mrs. F. S. MRS. FELCH OFFERED $1,000 TO WILLIAMS

Mrs. Felch tried to persuade him to have his father do the killing. She offered to let him have a part of the Felch property and promised to buy an auto and let him drive it. Also, according to the statement of the witness, Williams, on the occasion of the conversation, said that Mrs. Felch offered to supply him with money with which to secure a divorce from his wife in the following (last) June. There was talk, the respondent said, at one time of Joe Felch; of his drinking tea and complaining that it was poisoned.

Two weeks later, the deputy sheriff said, he had another talk with Williams in the jail. Nothing new was brought out except that on the Sunday morning after the tragedy Mrs. Williams, in the barn where Williams was doing the chores and said that "Joe was done," that he was dead. The respondent also stated, according to the witness, that the accused told of getting a box of cartridges for Mrs. Felch. She put them in her bed room. The respondent also related a conversation as to where Williams would live after Joe Felch's death and that it was understood that the property would be shared by Anna with Williams.

It was after Deputy Sheriff Welch had been dismissed from the stand that the prosecution indicated its desire to introduce as evidence the Williams statement to the state's attorney. It was claimed that the statement was taken down by the state's attorney's stenographer at the jail. Attorneys S. C. Wilson and David Conant for the defense objected to the admission of the statement on the ground that it was obtained by promise of immunity, or reward, or encouragement, or threats, or intimidation. While the judge allowed time for a preliminary hearing on the question of admissibility, the jury was excluded from the court room. The substance of the testimony by the state was that there was no promise of immunity made to the prisoner, no offer of reward or assistance and that no intimidation was used to induce Otis Williams to make the statement. The evidence offered at this time tended to show that the statement was made of Williams' own free will. Witnesses were cross examined at length. Attorney General Barber and the state's attorney having taken the stand for the state. The defense called as witnesses both Mr. Barber and State's Attorney Williams. The substance of their testimony as to whether or not detectives had been employed by the state and whether detectives had been stationed in the jail was that appearances indicated that two detectives had been used. At the close of the testimony on the preliminary question, the defense raised the question as to whether or not, if counsel for Williams should call the accused to testify on the same preliminary question, his presence and testimony could be used as a detriment to his case, the defense claiming that anything he might say should not be used before the jury.

In replying to this question, the prosecution took the stand that if the counsel for the defense called the respondent to the stand at the preliminary hearing, he would be subject to the rules of cross examination and that anything elicited from the witness in cross examination could be given in evidence before the jury on any issue. Furthermore, it was contended that if the defense made the accused a witness in preliminary hearing he became a witness, for all purposes, before the jury as well as before the court. The court made no immediate ruling and adjournment was taken.

During the preliminary hearing the defense, in calling Attorney General Barber to the stand, asked him if he knew whether Anna Felch had made any statement to him (the attorney general) charging Williams with the crime. Evidently a battle of wits was on for the attorney general invoked his oath as an attorney and as the attorney general of the state that he was in honor bound not to betray the confidence of anyone who confided in him any statement of the kind which the defense might refer to in the question. It was the second time within a day that professional ethics had been cited by a professional man in declining to answer a question. Dr. W. R. Rowland, during his testimony Thursday, having declined to give evidence bearing on his professional relations with persons mentioned in the testimony. Apparently Attorney General Barber's point was well taken for the court ruled in favor of the prosecution.

What Salt Will Do.

The common table salt is one of the most effective remedies for many ills. For nasal catarrh, make a weak brine of salt and tepid water and sniff up the nose, allowing it to run down the throat. If persistently used, it will in a sufficient length of time cure the nasal catarrh.

Common rock salt, dried in an oven and then pulverized, mixed with an equal part of spirits of turpentine. Keep a rag wet constantly with this preparation for twenty-four hours. It will surely cure a felon in that time.

The simplest remedy known for that terrible trying affliction, nervous headache, is a pinch of salt taken on the tongue and allowed to dissolve slowly, followed in about ten minutes with a drink of water.

He's Out.

In a village cricket match the local butcher was batting, when a ball bumped up and hit him on the head from which the wicket keeper made a catch.

"How's that?" yelled the wicket-keeper.

"Hout," said the umpire. "But it hit me on the head," protested the batsman.

"I don't know where it hit you," responded the umpire. "But I know the sound of wood, so hout you go."—London Fun.
